Connections will be equally perfect from Memphis to this point,

READY .- We are requested to announce to the public in general and the "gay and gallant knights" in particular, that the tournament grounds are ready, and that on and after next Monday, the track will be at their pleasure. It is desirable that young men of | deceased. Hardeman prove themselves competitors worthy of their lances. Practice and make yourselves familiar with the ground, the posts and the rings. Remember, Marshall county, Miss., will be represented here on the 12th of October, as also will be Shelby, Madison and Fayette. The object for which the tournament is being gotten up is a noble one, and should meet with the success it so richly merits. It is the purpose of the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of the J. B. Jenkins, adm'r. county to erect a monument to the memory of heroes who fell while battling for the A. and H. J. Dean, adm'rs. land that bore them. Let all unite in the coming fessivities and thus swell the amount of receipts-every dime of which, after paying necessary expenses, will be donated to the monumental fund of Hardeman county-We appeal to the chivalry of West Tennessee and North Mississippi in behalf of the ladies composing our Monumental Society, and trust that appeal will not go unheard.

Loss of Cattle.-During the past wee great many cows and oxen have died in this vicinity, especially along the waters of Spring Creek, from a disease known as the murain. In view of the fact that the disease still continues to afflict the cattle, we will repeat what was told to us by an old Texan stock raiser-it being the remedy used by him with beneficial results: As soon as symptoms of murain appear, procure a tub or us to notify the public that their stock of trough, and put into it about two gallons of | Fall goods will be here in a few days. warm water, to which add one half-pound of salt and one quart of wheat-bran; stir well, and give it to the afflicted animal Repeat the same, as often as the animal will partake of it, or until all symptoms of the disease have disapperaed.
